Australians, British, French Smash Into Italian Inner Guard

Desert City, 90 Miles Inside Libya, Reported Reduced to Rubble by Navy Guns

(By The Associated Press.)

Led by whooping Australian shock troops, a famous British regiment and "Free French" peoples, Britain's army of the Nile smashed into the inner defenses of Tobruk today to mop up survivors of the 30,000 Italians under siege there for 18 days.

A Reuters (British agency) dispatch from Sydney said Australian army headquarters had been advised that the Libyan desert stronghold had been captured but in midafternoon London military quarters still lacked confirmation. Dispatches from the battlefield said the British had driven to within three miles of the town at sunset last night.

CHURCHILL HINTS INVASION PLANS; WORKERS NEEDED

Tells of Need of Supplying "Army That Could Be Taken Overseas"

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Prime Minister Churchill indicated today that Britain's plan for an invasion of the European continent was an impelling reason for the government's preparations to conscript labor. He referred to the need of supplying "an army that could be taken overseas with all it would require for continuous action against the Germans" and said plans to meet this need were "just beginning to come into production." Thereafter an "intense demand on the man and woman power of the country" could not be avoided in the next six months, the prime minister said. The plan to register labor was announced by Labor Minister Ernest Bevin yesterday.

"Counting the home guard, we will have 4,000,000 armed and uniformed men who will all play a part in the defense of our hearths and homes," Churchill declared. "Now is the time when the full war effort will come to be realized. I look forward to very considerable coming and scrapping in the air force and in the army to reduce their demands upon the manpower market as far as possible during the coming stringent months so that we may be able to man the new factories and shipyards and till the new fields which are coming into production."

"This great nation is getting into its war stride, but the future contains no evidence which would justify lassitude, despondency or despair."

Two truck drivers, R. F. Young, 28, of Warren, and Frank G. Herschfield, 47, of Rome, escaped unhurt when their vehicles collided on the Ellsworth road, two miles north of Salem, at 3:50 p. m. Willkie's Running Mate Objects to "Total Power" For One Person

SOCIALIST CHIEF IS ALSO OPPOSED

Federal Agency for Economic Defense Planned By Roosevelt

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader and running mate of Wendell L. Willkie in the 1940 presidential campaign, announced today that he was opposed to the administration's lend lease bill in its present form "because it grants extraordinary and total power to one person."

McNary, back in the capital for the first time since Oct. 26, defined his position on the legislation as the house foreign affairs committee received a statement of opposition from Norman Thomas. The Socialist leader described the bill as contrary to "democratic control by the people over their own destiny."

To his opposition to the bill "in its present form" McNary added the declaration that he was thoroughly in accord with the principle of extending aid short of war to Great Britain.

But of the lend-lease bill he said "this is not the democratic way of life and I earnestly hope that the bill may be modified by appropriate committees or after debate in the congress."

Plans Economic Agency

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A federal agency entrusted with the responsibilities of economic defense is being planned by President Roosevelt, authoritative officials reported today.

One of the main tasks of the unit, it was said, may be to keep dollar exchange and essential materials out of the hands of the Axis powers.

The projected agency, officials stated, would be charged with coordinating all economic phases of the defense program and would constitute, in effect, a companion organization to the office of production management—the Knudsen-Hillman board which has been placed in charge of the nation's armaments manufacture effort.

The idea for such a component in the defense setup was understood to have been broached first in the economic preparations which followed a series of secret pre-war conferences at the treasury in April, 1939.

STOCKDALE SPEAKS BEFORE LISBON CLUB

Dr. Allen Stockdale, of New York City, representative of the National Association of Manufacturers, will speak at the Lisbon Kiwanis club luncheon at noon Thursday in the Lisbon Presbyterian church. Glen Hepner, president, announced.

Dr. Stockdale is appearing on the Salem Farmers Institute program. Dr. Stockdale was educated at Boston university, School of Theology, and took post-graduate work in philosophy and sociology at Oxford, England. He has held pastorates in Boston, Toledo, Chicago and Washington, and as a World War veteran was with the Second Division near Soissons at the opening of the big drive in July 1918.

Lists Big Reasons For Delinquency

LISBON, Jan. 22.—Only seven of the approximately 1,800 boys and girls whose cases came before the county juvenile court during the past year had ever been to Sunday school or attended church service, Mrs. Lenna Sotherland, attaché of the juvenile office, declared in a talk at a Presbyterian church fellowship service here last night. Mrs. Sotherland, relating the activities of the court, explained that 90 per cent of the delinquent children come from poor or broken homes. Most boys get into trouble as the result of petty thievery, due to the fact they are not given small allowances at home, she said. None of the boys and girls who were referred to the juvenile court were found to have had hobbies at home.

She praised the accomplishments of detention farms which are in operation in some counties and said she felt Columbiana county should support one.

The church program also featured music by the Bergant sisters of West Point, Robert Heyn and Miss Jean Maxwell of Lisbon.

Eighteen members of the crew of the fishing trawler Mary E. O'Hara were drowned when the craft struck a submerged object as she entered Boston harbor and sank. CITIES, COUNTIES CAN'T EXPECT MUCH FROM STATE FUNDS

Grant for Poor Relief Halted Mid-way Through General Assembly

COLUMBUS, Jan. 22.—Cities and counties were brusquely notified today that the Ohio legislature won't break its neck to give them financial assistance.

A $200,000 grant to the local governments for poor relief was halted mid-way in its flight through the general assembly. Informed members said it had been shelved indefinitely, and they were doubtful about when, if ever, it would be enacted.

Since Gov. John W. Bricker had recommended the appropriation and the senate had rushed it through under suspension of rules, its final passage had been expected this week.

The measure, now lying in the house finance committee, would reimburse the local governments for relief expenditures in 1940 which exceeded half the total cost. It is designed to bring to 50 per cent the state's contributions for the indigent last year.

The bill will be held up for two reasons, it was reliably reported: 1. House Republicans desire first to investigate thoroughly the financial resources of the state and local governments, and 2. Some members believe the legislature never pledged itself to pay half the cost of relief, although this was done in 1939.

Informed observers looked upon halting of the relief bill as an administration maneuver to force in the local subdivisions to minimize their demands for funds.

Mile Branch 4-H Girls Given Quota Trophy

Outstanding Work of Group Wins Recognition; Visitors Have Program

Presentation of a trophy to the Mile Branch Jolly Maidens, outstanding 4-H girls' group in the county in the past year, by the Salem Quota club featured the Quota meeting last night at the Memorial building.

Twenty-five club girls attended the meeting, presenting a program illustrating their club work.

Miss Clara Flick, a vice president of the Quota group, presided during the meeting which followed the dinner. Tables for the dinner were decorated with pink and yellow flowers.

Chairmen for the 12 months' programs next year were named. Plans were made, in response to a request from the Rotary club, for a donation to the fund for the prevention of infantile paralysis. Members voted to continue the plan of "secret pals". Last year's "pals" will be disclosed and new ones chosen at the next meeting. Arrangements were made and committees named for an installation party Feb. 18, when clubs of Canton, Alliance and Youngstown will be guests. Those attending at that time will include, it is expected, Marie Higgins of Youngstown, international director of Quota, and Mary O. Harrison of Canton, district governor.

The party is in charge of the February program committee, Mrs. A. Hansell and Mrs. Rine Wark and the inter-cities committee, Miss Zillah Stamp, Miss Alice Gladden, Mrs. Golda Schwartz, Miss Agnes Wilson and Miss Flick.

The program for the meeting last night, featuring the 4-H girls, was arranged by Mrs. Elizabeth Baker and Miss Wilson. Mrs. Baker introduced Miss Erma

CENTENNIAL PARK WORK IS OUTLINED

Sheen Before Solons, Told Appropriation Will Not Be Cut

Improvements made at Centennial park in the city's NYA project were outlined by Ed Sheen, president of the park commission, before city council last night. Sheen, inquiring as to what funds would be allocated for park purposes for the new year, was informed by council that the park appropriation was the same as last year.

About 60 boys, working in two shifts, were reported busy at the park making general improvements which probably would continue for the next four months.

Sheen said 30 new park benches had been constructed by the youths and that plans were being considered for the smoothing and leveling of the entire park grounds in order that the lawn might be easier to mow.

A total of $260 was reported spent in purchasing necessary tools and lumber. Other materials included bricks, cement, ashes and cable.

Sheen received council's O. K. to use one of the service department trucks for any hauling of material which might be done. The city, under provisions of the project, would receive credit for use of the truck and a driver.

RUMANIA, TORN UP INTERNALLY, UNDER ARMY RULE TODAY

German Major Is Killed; Athens Reports Heavy Italian Losses

(By Associated Press)

Rumania, torn by internal disorders and widespread street rioting, was under army control today. Chief of State Ion Antonescu appealed to Iron Guard factions to forget "their hatreds" and help him and the army restore order within 24 hours.

German troops in Rumania were said to have been sent to Bucharest and other cities to help halt the fighting between the Rumanian military and extremist groups of the green-shirted Iron Guard. General Antonescu blamed the outbreaks on "some misunderstanding individuals, rebellious elements and foreign agents."

Army in Control
He put the army in charge of the police, brought 87 important industries under military control, ordered a 10 p. m. curfew and decreed death for anyone committing crimes against members of the German military mission in Rumania.

Diplomatic reports reaching Belgrade, Yugoslavia, today said a Turkish-born Greek citizen accused of shooting to death a major of the German general staff in Rumania had been executed yesterday after a military trial.

The official Rumanian news agency carried a dispatch that Vice

HIGH SCHOOL LADS STEAL GAS, CHARGE

Two 17-year-old High school boys, arrested last night, for stealing gasoline from parked automobiles, were placed on probation and had their driving rights suspended for three months at a hearing in Mayor Norman Phillips' court today.

The boys, who are alleged to have siphoned "gas" from cars parked near the German club on the Bliss lot, were arrested by Patrolmen Ormsby and Todd after they had taken more of the fuel than they needed and gave some to a friend whom they met.

The officers came upon the "friend" as he was pouring gasoline from a can into his car and questioning led to the arrest of the others.

Pay Day for City Workers Looms As Appropriation Bill Passes

ALL FUNDS EXCEPT THREE ARE PARED

Municipal Bond Outlook Is Considerably Brighter, Says Auditor

A 1941 appropriation measure carrying a $242,480.13 total, and based on estimates of anticipated resources furnished by county officials, was passed by city council Tuesday night.

The appropriation is $92,281.71 less than the $334,761.84 figure approved a year ago, due to reports by the county budget commission of decreased revenues for the ensuing year. In connection with the new appropriation, City Auditor Karl Webster had disclosed that the city's balance of approximately $19,000 at the close of 1940 is just about half of what it was Dec. 31, 1939.

Pay Day Looms

Approval of the ordinance last night is expected to make possible by Thursday payment of wages to city employees which were due last Wednesday. Councilman A. P. Morris, chairman of the finance committee, who moved that the measure be passed as an emergency to eliminate further delay, expressed the committee's regrets that the ordinance could not have been passed sooner.

The appropriation measure discloses that the various city funds have been pared, none to serious extent, as the result of the lowered operating incomes.

Practically all funds, except the general, health and waterworks, have been cut somewhat. The waterworks fund was set at $67,630 in comparison with $57,040 for 1940 since, during the past year, additional appropriations had to be made by council to pay bills incurred by the service director in making improvements, etc.

The general fund total for the year has been placed at $10,217.50, just slightly above the $10,208.90 for '40.

The health fund total is $5,365 against $5,340 a year ago. Lowered are the safety fund, from $43,683 to $37,510; the service fund, from $51,975 to $41,105; general bond retirement fund, from $109,892.02 to $56,931 and special assessment bonds, from $29,531.92 to $6,670.63.

Kills Her Husband; Ohio 'Plow Woman', Mother of 5, Calm

(By Associated Press)

PORTRSMOUTH, Jan. 22.—A mother of five children today calmly awaited a decision of the nature of charges she must face in the fatal shooting of her husband, who, she said, one teamed her with her 14-year-old daughter to pull a plow and drag logs.

Mrs. Goldie Pauley, 30, told Sheriff Earl Brandel that she fired a shotgun charge into the back of Lee Pauley, 42, a WPA worker, after he threatened her life in their home on a small isolated hillside farm at Candy Run, 15 miles north of here.

Sheriff Brandel booked the woman pending completion of an investigation. He said a formal charge would be filed, but that authorities had not yet determined its degree.

Watched Slaying

Fourteen-year-old Ollie Pauley, oldest child in the family, said she watched her mother shoot her father as he lay on a couch.

Mrs. Pauley told the sheriff this story of the slaying: "My husband was extremely jealous and constantly beat me. Monday he asked me which one of the neighbor boys I liked best. One of the boys had written notes to Ollie asking her to marry him. I told him I liked the boy. Then he started drinking and grabbed the shotgun, yelling that he would kill me."

"Ollie and Alice (another daughter) heard him shouting and woke up and begged him to put the gun

IN THE WILLKIE MANNER

It probably won't be of any political significance and it's going to be a long time between campaigns anyway, so notice may be taken of a new legend now established in America's consciousness—the legend of the Willkie manner.

There are two ways of doing things, the indirect and the direct. The direct way is to fight an attacker in the open, to speak what is in one's mind, to go looking for the truth in person, to do things the guileless way and to dare to be true to one's own self.

For what it's worth—and it can't help but be worth something—Wendell Willkie has established his direct way so firmly that his trip to Great Britain to see for himself seems to fit him perfectly. As a change from the disciples of indirection, he is refreshingly different.

THE NTH POWER OF SUGGESTION

If there be anything to the tales that wives tell, any wave of sickness like the one in progress now provides a holiday for husbands susceptible to the power of suggestion.

As their wives well know, some husbands are extremely impressionable in all matters pertaining to health. It is as though they were looking for a chance to stretch out and be comforted.

The symbol of their class is that fellow Dagwood coming home with a coat hanger stuck in the shoulder of his coat and demanding sympathy for a crick in his back.

It just happens that they are raised to the nth power of suggestion; they can't help it. While it's not to be imagined there's anything illusory about the all-gone feeling produced by influenza or its less potent relations, it would be astonishing if some of the men who have played possum in the past didn't try to do it again.

Every wife with an inkling of suspicion should check up on her husband, in a tactful way of course, to make sure there's no fudging going on. The epidemic's bad enough without husbands exciting sympathy by making false claims.

STRAW-IN-THE-WIND ITEM

This is the height of the season for speculating on "Whether the United States?" It always has been this way right after congress convened; this year the lend-lease bill gives special point to the guesswork, of course. In 1941, withering is serious business.

As a contribution to current thought on the matter, Felix Morley, president of Haverford college, former editor of The Washington Post, and a credit to his writing brother, Christopher, said the other day the United States is heading toward a political merger with Britain.

Dr. Morley declared the lend-lease bill is a step in the direction of Clarence Streit's "Union Now," a literary vision that has captured the imagination of a number of earnest Americans. In other words, the bill is this country's way of saying to the nations that have ganged up to whale the tar out of the so-and-so democracies that the so-and-so-called democracies are ganging up, too.

All those who believe in uniting with Great Britain should form a line on the right, according to Dr. Morley. This line, unfortunately, will find itself looking at another line composed of Americans who see no percentage whatever in uniting with Great Britain, but are stuck on the desirability of keeping Great Britain full of fight till the United States is in shape to take care of itself.

HOCUS-POCUS

Two ordinary men, each with the customary infirmities of advancing age, each with plenty to worry about, met secretly somewhere in Europe sometime during last weekend.

They shared only one thing in common; they had pooled their military resources to start something hard to finish. One of them had seen two of his military campaigns knocked cockeyed and was in the most desperate plight, of any politician on the contemporary scene. The other was in a dilemma of having to win what seemed an impossible victory or explaining to the nation he had led into a cul-de-sac how he was going to extricate it.

Both of them had known from the beginning of their adventure to make over the world that if the United States of America decided to make the war its affair they couldn't win—and they had good reason to believe the United States was prepared to go even farther toward war than its own politicians dared to admit. Yet, because these two men, in deep trouble, are foxy psychologists, they managed to put an entirely different face on the situation. It was a triumph of hocus-pocus.

By merely letting it be rumored they were getting together to decide how, when and where to deliver the coup de grace to their enemies, they actually gave the impression it is going to be that simple. It was never more evident that the heaviest handicap under which their opponents are laboring is the impression the initiative still rests with the Rome-Berlin axis. All that Hitler and Mussolini now retain is the power to move secretly. In military strategy, initiative is the power to make an opponent fight on terms least advantageous to himself—and the Axis lost that power when the crux of the war became their ability to beat Great Britain on its own ground.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, January 23

A LIVELY enough day but probably in the wrong direction is read from the conflicting astral signs. General business interests may keep fairly active, but there are side issues of an antagonistic even belligerent nature, to be handled with restraint and tact rather than rash, impetuosity or violence. These may precipitate financial loss or litigation whereas coolness, good judgment and commonsense may turn debatable issues to the productive side, especially since powerful interests are involved. Private associations call for the same controls.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be kept lively enough, with customary matters going along in even tenor, but new endeavors or projects may be plunged into quarrels, or violent antagonism by reckless, hostile or passionate behavior. This might cause loss of funds or extravagant outlay, as well as dubious litigation, while tact, discretion and good nature might prove gainful.

A child born on this day will be talented and capable, with enterprise and initiative but may defeat its best interests by its impetuous violent and imperious qualities.

BRITISH DRIVE CONTINUES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Anglo-Allied forces are striking fiercely and successfully at the Fascist armies in Africa as a counter to the Axis efforts to gain control of the Mediterranean and smash Britain before American help can make her safe.

The important Italian naval base of Tobruk on the Libyan coast has been stormed by the army of the Nile and is reported in their hands. This represents a victory of far-reaching consequence.

It means a further devastating blow at the already badly man-handled Fascist army under Marshal Graziani—cream of Mussolini's African fighters. This greatly adds to the threat that Italy's whole African empire may be lost to her in the operations now proceeding.

Possession of Tobruk will be of great help to the Anglo-Allies in the swelling battle for domination of the Mediterranean. If the British decide to continue their offensive, the Italians may make a stand at Derna, some 90 miles to the west. However, the naval and air base of Bengasi, still farther west, is the next important strategic point. One would expect Bengasi to organize strong resistance there, since the fall of Bengasi would open up the road to Tripoli, last big toe-hold of the Fascists in Libya.

It would seem to be a far reach from Libya to the Rumanian upheaval, but the potentialities of this Balkan affair are such that we scarcely can dissociate it from the battle of the Mediterranean. The exact position in Rumania is obscure, but it appears that there have been disorders in which the radical Iron Guard has been involved and that the country now is under military rule, supported by German troops.

That is the simplest explanation of the position. If we want to make it more difficult, we might guess that the trouble is part of a Nazi maneuver which contemplates the taking over of Rumania, look, stock and barrel by the reich and that this round-about method is employed to avoid an open break with Russia. We shall be wise to wait for more facts, however, before dwelling on such a line of speculation.

Extension Program Reaches Two-Thirds of Rural Families

Approximately 2-3 of the farm families in Columbiana county are directly reached by some phase of the agricultural extension program, according to the report filed with the county commissioners by the extension agents.

The report includes the work of Floyd Lower, county extension agent, John Strausbaugh, assistant county extension agent, and Miss Erma Ramseyer, home demonstration agent, for 1940. A total of 1101 farm and home visits were made and 2407 calls at the office were made by farm people, 4471 bulletins were distributed, 537 meetings were attended and 1272 meetings, including 4-H club meetings, were held in connection with the extension work. In addition to the usual days of work, 474 evenings were devoted to extension work by the three agents.

The report shows that 36 corn hybrids were tested, 87 soil samples were tested for 57 farms, 10 farms were given aid in strip field erosion control and 42 different lots of seed potatoes were tested in the potato plots. A total of 144 acres of land was reforested during the year, making a total of 961 acre reforested in the last five years; 260 fruit growers received regular spray information service and 55 growers sold 233 and 1-3 cars of apples to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation during the winter of 1939-40.

Approximately 350 homes installed electricity for the first time.

A total of 269 dairy herds, comprising 3,538 cattle, were tested for Bang's disease, making 27% of the herds and 39% of the cattle in the county now voluntarily tested. Nineteen government crop loans were issued, totaling $3575. In the land use mapping project, 253 farm men and women served on the committees. Seventy-three percent of the total land in the county is classified as suitable for agriculture and 27% as not suitable. Nine farmer's institutes were held during the year. A total of 140 young people participated in 12 rural youth meetings with an average attendance of 88.

4-H club work was one of the larger phases of work. 63 boys and girls clubs were organized with 120 adult leaders. 878 different boys and girls were enrolled in clubs, two of whom received state and national recognition. Thirty-three demonstrations were given by Miss Ramseyer in connection with a nutrition project, with 715 women in attendance. A county-wide canning demonstration meeting, a kitchen tour, and an organization of kitchen improvement projects being conducted this winter, were among the home economics activities. There are but a part of the activities listed in the report of the commissioners.

lumps and blisters. Today we wish to continue the subject and take up the other forms.

Pimples or pustules on the hands are usually due to a secondary infection of a dermatitis. The dermatitis may come from soap or other chemicals.

Ringworm is possible on the hands and may become infected, producing pimples. The same thing is true of scabies or the itch. Plain old-fashioned smallpox may appear on the hands in more proportion than anywhere else on the body.

Scales—The commonest cause of scales on the hand is some form of eczema. Eczema is an old-fashioned term which will probably never go out of usage, although skin specialists are rather anxious to discard it for the reason that it is sort of a cloak for ignorance and the eczema may actually be due to a chemical dermatitis or some other form of irritation.

Psoriasis The commonest chronic disease which produces scaling on the hands is psoriasis. Treatment in the case of eczema or psoriasis is dependent on the cause, the age, and the condition of the patient.

Ringworm is a very common disease on the hands and produces scales in certain cases. It will be noticed that ringworm may produce nearly any kind of an eruption.

When crusts and fissures appear in a localized area, cancer must be thought of.

The commonest cause of dry, fissured skin on the hands, however, is too much soap and water, especially laundry soap. The treatment of this is protection with rubber gloves.

Ulcers or open sores are caused in most cases by cancer. Sometimes contact infection must be thought of.

Chemicals such as lime or chrome will produce ulcers; so also will tuberculosis of the skin, and the so-called rabbit fever, or tularemia, usually begins as an ulceration on one of the fingers of a housewife who has dressed a rabbit without wearing rubber gloves.

Scars Scars on the hand—Scars are very interesting to doctors because they indicate the previous disease which may have a bearing on present symptoms or manifestations elsewhere in the body. Scars which follow ordinary injuries with cutting of the skin or infection, and produce the large giant scars known as "keloids," may be very troublesome. They usually can be successfully treated with filtered X-ray especially in the younger age group.

Disturbances of pigmentation of the hand with white spots and liver spots are common but very resistance to any kind of treatment known to scientific dermatology.

Among other diseases which ap-

LOS ANGELES (Jan. 19th) — Today, when Gilmore-Grand Canyon Run results were officially published, it was revealed that the Nash Ambassador "600" had delivered more miles to the gallon than any other 6, 8, or 12-cylinder car in America's official economy race.

Scene of Nash victory . . . 599 miles of high speed travel . . . in desert heat, over mountain ranges.

NEVER before, in Gilmore competition, had a car so big gone so far, so fast, on such little gasoline!

But equally remarkable is the driver's own report of the race.

Even over rough mountain stretches, this Nash almost floated along — on its soft, four-wheel coil springs. And with its new Two-way Roller Steering it gripped the sharpest curves, as if it were geared to rails.

High above the snow line, drivers were kept warm by its Weather Eye Conditioned Air System.

You've got to see and drive this Nash yourself to know what it's like.

It's the result of three years' testing, and an investment of many millions of dollars.

"HONEYMOON PREFERRED" by May Christie

SYNOPSIS

How could she win back Walter Mallory, well known lawyer? That was the question uppermost in the mind of Jean Garrett, lovely young debutante as she danced with Tommy Alden, society playboy at the Yacht Club. A few nights previous, Walter had told her he would not be included in a party which would include the philandering Pedro de Moraes and Tommy, and had dropped out of the picture. To add to Jean's chagrin, he was squiring the beautiful Helen Hobart tonight. Overhearing a remark that Walter was planning a party aboard his yacht later that night, Jean contrives to see him alone, hoping he will invite her. He treats her coldly and refuses to permit a photographer to take their pictures together, sarcastically remarking, "Press agent stuff isn't my line."

CHAPTER TWO

Jean could have burst into tears. Walter had turned her down. She knew that the dance floor would open up and swallow her, she was so humiliated.

She murmured: "Beast! That was childish. Rude. But she was miserably wrought up."

Blindly she started for the bar. She was conscious of a man beside her. Walter? Repenting his obstinacy, his hard-heartedness?

No! It was Pedro....

She did not want to talk to Pedro de Moraes. He had been one half of the cause of her misunderstanding. She hated Pedro for it now, hated his sleekness, his assured, suave air.

"You run away from me. You avoid me when you know how I feel for you. But you are cruel, Jean! And beautiful—like the American flower with the black heart!"

She would have been amused by Pedro and his exaggerated lingo at any other time. She snapped now: "Airdate."

"And what is that?"

"A dog. The snooty kind."

"You do not mean it, cara mia. You are upset? Will you have a glass of wine?"

"No. You go ahead, though."

He ordered a rum fizz. His eyes were twin volcanoes turned on her. When he downed the drink, they'd surely burst into flames, erupting molten lava.

Tommy, she saw, was doing well (or ill) for himself at the bar. He was with Helen Hobart. She was urging drinks on him. "To get him plastered and humiliate me!" Jean told herself, bitterly.

Well, trust men to have a good time. And the woman paid. Their silly compliments and protestations meant nothing.

Tommy had wanted her to elope with him. And he was openly flirting with Helen now. Pedro's black eyes had swelled in the same direction. The red-haired girl at the bar tilted her glass. She yelled: "Hey, Pedro! To you! To the new Caruso!"

He beamed. Childishly vain. He rose and bowed. Jean could willingly have slapped him when he said, smugly: "That is a nice tribute. Your friend—she is like a tiger-lily—no?"

Jean spun around. "Who do you mean by boy-friend?"

"She's a hellion. Go on over and join her. She wants that."

"But you are jealous?" Surprised delight in the black eyes. "Then you have a feeling for me, cara mia? You are sorry that so soon I sail for Cuba? You meet me tomorrow, and we take a nice motor ride? It is so beautiful in the Fall now! We stop at a road-house—a quiet place where—"

"Cut it out, Pedro! Just for once, can't you get women off your mind?" Walter's eurtness—and then this ardour—it was enough to drive a girl crazy....

The word Cuba brought her mother to her mind. Laurel was in Cuba, visiting on a sugar plantation. She'd have been in Biarritz now if the war hadn't been on. Jean had been to Europe twice with her mother. Lovely at forty-three, Laurel wasn't so keen now about parading a nineteen-year-old daughter. Jean loved Laurel—much more than she cared for me! she thought bitterly. She'd wanted to accompany Laurel to Paris last June, before the war broke out. But her mother seemed to look upon her girl as competition, and wouldn't agree.

Jean loved France. Why wouldn't she? Laurel had been in France during and after the big World war, and it was shortly before the Armistice that she'd known she was going to have the baby that was Jean. She had just been widowed. Gene Garrett, good-looking young "coughboy" of the famous 125th Division whom she had married four months before the Armistice, had been killed in action. Laurel had come home in America. Their daughter had been born here.

Rupert Van Aukon, the industrialist whom Laurel had married a few years later, was kind and generous to them. But sometimes Jean felt that her mother had never gotten over her first, her real love.

She was restless, gadding. Looking for who knows what? Love, maybe? True love, again? As though Laurel would find it in "Cafe Society," or what had long been termed "The International Set!"

Rupert, thought Jean, was getting fed up with these absences. And sometimes, now, he took out his irritation on his stenographer. He'd been growing stricter of late. Wanting to know whom she went out with. Laying down the law about being home at reasonable hours.

"Listen, Pedro. We've got to get Tommy away from that bar. Go into the library and bring a cup of coffee. Meantime, I'll talk to him." She got up from their small table.

"Hello Jean. All alone?" Helen drawled.

Jean ignored that. She said: "Tommy, come over to the table in the corner. We've ordered coffee."

"Oh, what the heck! 'Sall right here!" he mumbled.

"Your boy-friend doesn't sound enthusiastic," Helen mocked.

Jean spun round. "Who do you mean by boy-friend?" she snapped.

"Tommy, this time. Or Walter."

The green eyes challenged. "Or—shall I continue?" impudently.

"Walter? What's Walter got to do this this?" Jean was furious. She flushed hotly.

"He just gave you a turn-down, didn't he? I heard!"

"He certainly did not. It just happens that neither he nor I care for publicity. You saw that I wouldn't be photographed!"

Helen let loose an unpleasant snicker. "Well, I'll be darned! So that's why your mother pays a press-agent—to keep your picture OUT of the papers! That's the best one I've heard yet. Jean Garrett! He's so darn smart at getting you INTO the papers that he ought to be fired!"

"So it was you told Walter about the press-agent?" The words were out of her mouth before Jean realized her blunder.

Tommy swung round. "Whash this? The battle of two jungle cats?" he shouted.

A voice behind them, Walter's. He was with the pretty girl whom Jean had heard telling her friends of his invitation. He said: "You'd better get your wrap, Mary. I'll round up the others and we'll meet at my box."

The girl cooed back at him: "It's mighty sweet of you, Walter. I'll love the river ride, and it'll be my first dance at the Cruise Club!"

The two disappeared. Helen's face was a study. To have gloated about Walter, and then be let down just as Jean had been! Her mouth fell open.

But she was a girl who stuck at very little. Tie for tie! A plan sprang to her mind. She'd got Tommy thoroughly fuddled. But he would be game for it, if she could get him out of his torpor.

Seeing that Jean had returned to her table in the corner, awaiting Pedro, she shook Tommy who was now nodding. "Come up out of your sleep, my lamb!"

He grinned at her. A swell egg, Helen.

"Whash the idea?"

"How'd you like a fast boat ride?" She knew he was an expert speedboat enthusiast. She whispered her plan. It sounded swell, and he told her that.

"But there'll be the devil to pay, angel."

"Phooey!"

"Mallory'll massacre us!"

She grabbed his arm. "Come on. Out the back way."

"You'll freeze to death!"

"Nix on that," Helen laughed. "I'm burning from the inside, like a coal heap! Before he could argue further, she'd got him to the pier. Swell little manager, Helen. It would be a peach of an adventure. (To be continued)

"Trelawny" Review Is Presented At Meeting of Clubs

"Trelawny," a recent book by Margaret Armstrong, biography of the 16th century Cornish adventurer whose colorful, eventful life ended in 1881, was delightfully reviewed by Mrs. M. J. Hanni of Painesville at a joint meeting of Book, Travelers and Salem Music Study clubs at the library yesterday.

Trelawny's adventures included the sailing of the Indian ocean; fighting under the French flag; capture of a private town; marriage of the daughter of an Arab sheik; officiating at the burning of the body of Shelley, the poet; fighting in Greece with Byron; purchase in America of a slave whom he immediately freed; an attempt to swim the Niagara river.

The writer's book is based upon fact, not fiction, presenting his life through his public writings and his letters.

Music On Program

The musical entertainment on the program included a piano solo by Miss Marjorie Brian and a vocal number by Miss Deborah Beery, accompanied by her sister Priscilla.

RUMANIA, TORN UP, UNDER ARMY RULE

German Major Is Killed;
Athens Reports Heavy
Italian Losses

Premier Horia Sima, Iron Guard leader, had gone to Berlin to confer with Nazi leaders.

In Turkey, the official radio declared last night "those who attack our steel fortress are doomed to fall in the attempt," and announced a great part of the Turkish army was massed in Thrace near the Bulgarian border.

Reports from Athens said Italian losses were so heavy in the Fascist Julia division that its commanders withdrew it from the front lines in Albania in order to reform the division's ranks.

A chop suey supper was enjoyed by the two groups. Mrs. Harry Percival and her committee, including Mrs. Charles Cozad, Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. George Trisler and Mrs. Thomas Jenkins, were in charge of the dinner. Fifty women attended.

Well Known Niles Man Was Not Disappointed In Ton Jon No. 3

"Declares That He Had to Take a
Towel To Bed With Him Because He Could Not Hold Water, Which Was a Grievous and Embarrassing Situation. Sharp Pains Were In His Back, Arms and Legs Constantly. His Joints and Muscles
Were Extremely Stiff and Sore.
Nightly Rising Were Frequent and Very Disturbing."

MR. NEWTON JONES

"TON JON NO. 3 is one medicine that I was not disappointed in," quotes Mr. Newton Jones of 419 Mahoning Ave., Niles, Ohio, near Warren and employed by the Brainard Steel Company.

"I used to take a towel to bed with me because I could not hold the water. This surely was an embarrassing situation. I suffered much misery due to the difficulty I had in urinating and a torturing burning and smarting sensation always accompanied this process making it even more grievous.

"My back, arms, legs and the back of my neck were loaded with agonizing aches and pains. My joints and muscles were stiff and sore constantly and my hands would tremble something pitiful. My sleep would be broken at frequent intervals due to the necessity of leaving my bed to relieve my kidneys of the discomfort. I was subject to dizzy spells and was in a general rundown nervous condition.

"Although I have only taken
TON JON No. 3 a few short weeks,
I don't have an ache or pain in my whole body now. This fine Wonder Medicine is all that you claim it to be."

His wife added: "He is like another person to live with now. He isn't grouchy anymore like he was before he took TON JON, so I want to take a bottle of TON JON
No. 1 along with him."

NEWSOM'S SALARY WILL TOP FELLER'S IN 1941 CAMPAIGN

Will Draw More than Tribe Star's $30,000, Say Detroit Reports

(By Associated Press)
DETROIT, Jan. 22.—Your voluble old pal, Louie (Buck) Newsom, who pitches baseball for the Detroit Tigers, now seems to have the authority for his biggest boast of all, and Buck has to keep silent.

Reliable sources disclosed today that Newsom—not Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians—has become the highest paid twirler in the game's history at a salary in excess of $30,000. Buck will draw pay checks for that tidy sum for the 1941 season.

In keeping with an unwritten law of the Tigers that salaries are never mentioned publicly, the doughty Newsom won't say a word. It was established, however, that Buck will draw a fancier salary than that to be paid Feller, whom the Indians signed yesterday for a reported $30,000.

Winner of 13 straight games and a world series star, Newsom in 1940 enjoyed his finest season in a long career in the big leagues. He won 21 and lost five during the regular season and, in pitching 264 innings, was surpassed only by Feller, John Rigney of the White Sox and Dutch Leonard of Washington.

Root Protests
CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—"I'll never sign the contract they offered me," that unequivocal statement did not come from a pop-off or publicity-seeking ball player, but from quiet, genial Charles Henry Root, who has built up a tremendous following in his 15 years with the Chicago Cubs.

Root and the Cubs, represented by James Timothy Gallagher, new general manager, are reportedly rather far apart on their respective estimates of Root's worth to the club in 1941. Winner of only two games last season when he was used mainly as a relief hurler, he was asked to take a heavy cut this year.

"I've tried to be fair with the Cubs for 15 years," Root said while here to confer with Gallagher, "and I want them to be fair with me now."

"I can still pitch every week, but I can't be in the bullpen every day warming up and expect to do any good. I don't want to be traded. I've spent my big league life here and I want to stay here. I expected a cut, perhaps, but not one like I got. I won't sign for what they offered. That's definite. I'm 42 years old before another season gets underway; also has his heart set on reaching the 200-victory total. Only four big leaguers now active are over that mark—Red Ruffing, Ted Lyons, Lefty Grove and Fred Fitzsimmons.

The Cub veteran has won 193 games since joining the Cubs in 1926.

Entries Close Tonight

Entries for the annual city bowling tournament will close tonight. Bill Juergens, secretary of the Salem Bowling association, announced today. Entries received by him Thursday morning will be accepted, he added.

The tournament, including five-man events, doubles and singles, will get under way next week at the Masonic alleys. Indications today were that the entry list will be as large as that of last year.

NEWSOM'S SALARY WILL TOP FELLER'S IN 1941 CAMPAIGN

Will Draw More than Tribe Star's $30,000, Say Detroit Reports

(By Associated Press)
DETROIT, Jan. 22.—You would old pal, Louie (Buck) Newsom, who pitches baseball for the Detroit Tigers, now seems to have the authority for his biggest boast of all, and Buck has to keep silent.

Reliable sources disclosed today that Newsom—not Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians—has become the highest paid twirler in the game's history at a salary in excess of $30,000. Buck will draw pay checks for that tidy sum for the 1941 season.

In keeping with an unwritten law of the Tigers that salaries are never mentioned publicly, the doughty Newsom won't say a word. It was established, however, that Buck will draw a fancier salary than that to be paid Feller, whom the Indians signed yesterday for a reported $30,000.

Winner of 13 straight games and a world series star, Newsom in 1940 enjoyed his finest season in a long career in the big leagues. He won 21 and lost five during the regular season and, in pitching 264 innings, was surpassed only by Feller, John Rigney of the White Sox and Dutch Leonard of Washington.

Root Protest
CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—"I'll never sign the contract they offered me." That unequivocal statement did not come from a pop-off or publicity-seeking ball player, but from quiet, genial Charles Henry Root, who has built up a tremendous following in his 15 years with the Chicago Cubs.

Root and the Cubs, represented by James Timothy Gallagher, new general manager, are reportedly rather far apart on their respective estimates of Root's worth to the club in 1941. Winner of only two games last season when he was used mainly as a relief hurler, he was asked to take a heavy cut this year.

"I've tried to be fair with the Cubs for 15 years," Root said while here to confer with Gallagher, "and I want them to be fair with me now."

"I can still pitch every week, but I can't be in the bullpen every day warming up and expect to do any good. I don't want to be traded. I've spent my big league life here and I want to stay here. I expected a cut, perhaps, but not one like that. I won't sign for what they offered. That's definite."

Root, who will be 42 years old before another season gets underway, also has his heart set on reaching the 200-victory total. Only four big leaguers now active are over that mark—Red Ruffing, Ted Lyons, Lefty Grove and Fred Fitzsimmons.

The Cub veteran has won 193 games since joining the Cubs in 1926.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Salem News was edged out of the first place in the National league last night, dropping three straight games to the Gem Shoes at the Masonic alleys. The Stone five cracked 900 in the first two frames to chalk up a team total of 2774.

The Masons took two from the Moose while Grate's Recreation gained a similar verdict over the Eagles. Tolerton had a good second frame for Grate's, hitting a 230.

The National Sanitary made a clean sweep over Beeler's Scholians. The Crescent Juniors jumped into a three-game lead in the Owl loop last night, taking two out of three from the Amateur Pros at the Grate alleys while their nearest rival, Scott's Smoke Balls, were losing two to the Trades Class No. 1 outfit.

The J-C Wildcats made it a three-way tie for second place by edging out of the Amateur Trades two out of three.

Entries Close Tonight

Entries for the annual city bowling tournament will close tonight, Bill Juergens, secretary of the Salem Bowling association, announced today. Entries received by him Thursday morning will be accepted, he added.

The tournament, including five-man events, doubles and singles, will get under way next week at the Masonic alleys. Indications today were that the entry list will be as large as that of last year.

MT. UNION DEFEATS KENT U., GAINS IN CONFERENCE RACE

Ashland Knocks Off Capital; Cincinnati Scores Upset Over Ohio U.

(By Associated Press)
MOUNT UNION was another notch closer to league-leading Ohio Northern in the Ohio conference basketball standings today.

The Purple served notice that it was to be considered when conference laurels are passed out by winning Kent State's Golden Flashers at Alliance last night, 58 to 39, for its seventh straight triumph and third conference win with no losses.

The Mounts piled up an imposing 35-12 halftime advantage and coasted the rest of the way. Charles Joachim, Mount Union forward, paced the scoring with 15 points.

Ashland Beats Capital
In last night's other conference game Ashland college defeated Capital, 45 to 33, despite the absence of its veteran center, Virge Seobey, who is ill. The game was played at Ashland.

Although Capital jumped to a 7-5 lead early in the game, Ashland held a 23-14 advantage at halftime.

It was Ashland's sixth victory with one defeat for the season and Capital's eighth loss without a win.

Cincinnati university entertained Ohio university and by staging a thrilling last-half rally scored an upset, 51 to 42. The Bobcats led at the first quarter, 14-7, at the half 26-21, and boosted their advantage to 30-21 in the last frame before Cincinnati's offense began to click.

Wittenberg's last half long shots defeated Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware, 49 to 41. The lead changed four times before Wittenberg attained a 27-25 advantage at halftime.

Woooster Swamps Hiram
Woooster college swamped Hiram at Woooster, 76 to 18, the home team scoring 25 points before the visitors were able to tally. Woooster led at halftime 34 to 7.

Bradley Tech beat Dayton university, 45 to 35, in a game at Peoria, Ill. Bradley took an early lead and was ahead, 27-19, at the half.

No date has been set for the conference game between Ohio Northern and Denison, scheduled last night but postponed because of illness.

FARMERS GATHER FOR ANNUAL RALLY

200 Attend Opening Session This Morning; More Expected

Mrs. Eldon Whinnery gave a reading.

Interesting talks were given by the two state institute speakers, William Alexander of Arcadia and Mrs. Everett Noland of Hanover.

Speaking on the subject, "When Will Peace Come?" Mr. Alexander pointed out that this will not be until Christ reigns on earth. He pointed out that people today should have faith in each other; that nations in the past had perished because they had no Christian ideals.

Children Are People

Speaking on "This Younger Generation," Mrs. Noland contended that parents should think of their young children as people and not as little tots to order about the house. Children should be taught by examples, she said.

The trouble with most parents today, she pointed out, is that they are not trained to be parents.

McREYNOLDS WILL QUIT BENCH FEB. 1

Retirement Will Give President Sixth Appointment to Court

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Justice James Clark McReynolds, outspoken opponent of much New Deal legislation, notified President Roosevelt today that he would retire from the Supreme Court Feb. 1 after 26 years of service.

The veteran jurist, who will be 79 years old Feb. 3, was the only member of the tribunal described by administration officials as "conservative."

His retirement opens the way for Mr. Roosevelt to make his sixth appointment to the nine-man court. There have been reports that Chief Justice Hughes, 78, might retire soon, but they have been unconfirmed. Friends expressed the belief that Hughes would remain on the court as long as his health permitted him to do the work.

Attorney General Robert H. Jackson has been mentioned frequently as a possible appointee to the first vacancy on the court.

McReynolds' notification to the President was a formal, two-sentence letter. It stated his intention of withdrawing from the court under the law permitting the retirement at full pay of $20,000 annually of justices over 70 who have served 10 consecutive years on the supreme bench.

Co-eds to Aid Soldiers

OBERLIN, Jan. 22.—The boys in the army training camps won't be forgotten if four Oberlin girls have anything to say about it. They have organized a "committee for inter-collegiate aid to American soldiers" and will ask other colleges to establish similar units.

The group will collect playing cards and games for draftees. Organizers of the movement are Margaret Heiby of Cincinnati, Patricia Patterson of Piquette, Marion Moore of Oberlin and Edith Hargrave of Norwood, all seniors.

away. He told them to get back to bed or he'd kill them, too. I got the shotgun shells and when he couldn't find them, he threatened to stick a knife in my heart."

Mrs. Pauley said that her husband lay down in the front room after saying, "I'll let you live until morning, then I'll kill you and the John Keaton family."

"I went into the rear bedroom," Mrs. Pauley continued, "and loaded the shotgun. His back was still toward me. I pulled the trigger. He didn't move or make a sound."

Sends For Help

"Ollie saw the shooting. I sat down and waited until daylight. I got breakfast for the children and sent Ollie and Alice for help."

She told the sheriff that last August, after undergoing an operation, she was forced to drag logs and pull a plow with Ollie.

Ollie then told the sheriff her version of the shooting.

"Did you see your mother shoot your father?" Brandel asked her.

"Yeah, I watched her."

"What did he do?"

"Just laid there."

"When did you take him off the couch?"

"Must have been about 3." (The shooting occurred at midnight.)

"Was your father dead?"

"Yeah."

"How did you know?"

"Well, he was beginning to get stiff."

"Did you father and mother fight much?"

"Yeah, some."

"Whose fault do you think it was?"

"Father's."

Besides Ollie and Alice, who is 13, the children are Rachel, 10; Edgar, 7, and Raymond, 5.
